

I Am The Daywalker. Here Is My Story.

Hello, I am the Daywalker. Or, at least that's the username I choose when I joined Virtuous Pedophiles. I chose this name because, as a virtuous pedophile, I sometimes feel like a vampire with morals. One who has a craving for human blood but finds other means of gaining sustenance and manages not to harm humans.

In the movie, "Blade", Wesley Snipes plays such a vampire. The bad vampires call him "the Daywalker", as he is also the only vampire who can move about in daylight. The bad vampires hate and fear the Daywalker, just as the pro-contact pedophiles mostly hate and fear pedophiles such as myself, as well as organizations like VirPed. So, Daywalker seemed to me like a fitting nickname.

I come from a background of childhood sexual abuse and bullying. I was first molested by some neighborhood teenagers when I was about 7 years old. Although a lot of the sexual abuse I experienced may sound mild compared to others, (no violence involved), my childhood was not a happy or innocent one. I was sexualized at way to early an age and spent my preteen years obsessed with sex and pornography. When I first realized my attraction to younger children at 13, my world fell apart. After that, I grew up and my attraction did not. I spent my late teens in therapy for all this, (voluntarily), but of course it did not cure me. I have not seen a therapist now for almost 20 years.

I am now in my late 30s. My attraction is primarily to boys in the 8-12 age range but I am also attracted to girls at those ages. I have no attraction whatsoever to adults of either sex but I have never acted on my pedophilic attractions, ever. Fortunately, when it comes to the sexual aspect of my attraction, I have been blessed with a solid core belief that adult-child sex is always wrong and harmful to the child involved, under any circumstances. I see my pedophilia as an affliction and a curse. I would give anything to have a magic pill that would make my attraction to children go away but, sadly, no such pill will ever exist.

My attraction to children isn't just sexual though. It's deeply emotional as well. I love children more deeply than I love anything else. I can't stand to see a child who's hurt, or who looks scared or sad. I can't stand to see them cry. When I do, all I want in the world is to swoop in, take them in my arms, hold them and make their pain go away. I can't even watch a movie that has a sad scene involving a child without going to pieces and crying all over myself.

The word, "pedophile", is a Greek word that more or less literally translates to "child lover". In that sense, I feel like I am a pedophile by the truest definition of the word. I am a pedophile. I am a child lover. The problem is, I love children too much. It is a love that consumes me and a love that I can not turn off. It is a love that has made my life extremely difficult but it is a love that I will use to do good in the world and not bad. It has been a struggle, and it will continue to be a struggle, but I intend to succeed. I intend to beat it, and I will.
